Requests for Online Health will not be approved

Are you planning to play sports at the college level? Yes or No

Byron Center's Edgenuity courses are NOT NCAA approved.

Online courses offer opportunities for students that a classroom experience can not. However, they also require a skill set to be successful, including:

- Computer and technological skills including experience with word processing, email applications, and web browsing. It may also require that certain documents and applications be downloaded.
- An independent learning mindset. Students are required to be a self directed learner, organized, and self disciplined.
- Time management skills and the ability to set goals and manage self imposed deadlines.
- A reading level that at times must be above grade level. This will include critical thinking skills and the ability to infer and interpret data and instructions.

I understand the above and will work diligently to do my best to be successful in this online course.
